POSITION SUMMARY:

The University invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean of the Faculty of Liberal and Fine Arts (FLFA) who is able to advance the mission of the institution to ‘support and drive national development through teaching, research and innovation, and service.’ UB seeks a dynamic, collaborative and forward-thinking leader who will provide vision and strategic direction for the FLFA and act as an advocate for the arts through the University network and beyond.

The Faculty of Liberal and Fine Arts drives the liberal arts mission of the University and provides just under fifty percent of the academic programming in UB’s general education core. The Dean will be responsible for working with faculty through the Academic Senate to refine recommendations regarding the revision of the general education core, aligned with the University’s mission and embracing its newly chartered status.

In driving this mandate, the Dean will lead the Faculty in advocating for the central role of Liberal and Fine Arts in a comprehensive university and will be challenged to build consensus on several critical initiatives including, but not limited to, the development of annual programming across disciplines in the visual and performing arts, bringing the dream of an international village to life, deepening the commitment to second language learning within and across programmes, working collaboratively within the Faculty and across the institution to create synergies and entrepreneurial possibilities as well as avenues to ensure the success of the University’s Capital Campaign to attract resources to build a state of the art Cultural Arts Complex. The Dean will also seek to establish endowed scholarships for students in Fine and Performing Arts and complete a redesign and renaissance of the Performing Arts Centre.

In addition, in refining and mapping out the Faculty’s strategic plan so that it dovetails with that of the University, the Dean will cultivate strategic partnerships with University administrators, faculty and staff, and with local community members and arts organizations in order to execute the educational objectives of both the FLFA and University. Alumni relations and fundraising are essential components of the position and the Dean will play an active leadership role in both. Building on its strengths, the Dean will provide strong, collaborative and transparent leadership for the FLFA.

The ideal candidate will embrace and encourage emerging initiatives in the Faculty and will be invested in shared governance and student success; have a commitment to stewarding and expanding fundraising efforts and to building, supporting and retaining outstanding faculty, staff and students.
